Aaron, I don't know if you remember me, but you were in my junior English class at the Lorain County JVS. I just wanted to send my sympathy to you. I read about your mother's death in the newspaper. You and your family are in my thoughts and prayers. Mrs. More

I learned a lot about Jane while she worked at RheTech Colors, and considered her a sister and treated her as such with teasing and pranks. I could never remember the melody to "The Ballad of the Edmond Fitzgerald", and she would provide it for me, then I would make up new words to the song and start mocking various current events, but more often I would sing about various work politics and activities. It was a great stress reliever for both of us, and always produced a smile. I'm going to miss her, she was my Costello, always the straight man, or in this case straight woman.
